The China Idail.

Tur strained relations between Germany and Switzerland referred to in the Havas as the Wohlgemuth affair. Germany instigating agents. As a secuel to that puzzling to his auditors. It was far too affair, somewhat astounding revelations subtle to be followed intelligently at the were made in the German Reichstag time, and was evidently intended as some-

by the socialist deputy Slinger, and it was to a considerable extent in consequence of these revelations that Herr you Puttkamer. Minister for the Interior, incurred the displeasure of Emperor Frederick and had to resign his portfolio. The recent affair was, however, much more serious, a it was not a question of vulgar scamps, but of an Imperial Commissary having official residence at Mulhouse. The facts of this case, which has strained the good relations of the two countries, are somewhat as follows. In the month of February & tailor named Lutz residing at Basel, a member of the German socialist colony there, entered into correspondence with Commissary Wohlgomuth at Mulhouse, who offered Lutz the role of agent at Basel, with the duty of informing the German police of everything of political interest that took place in that town. Lutz was exacting. He demanded a fixed salary for the work, and it was agreed that he should be paid 200 Marks per month, with extras for exceptionally interesting information. To let Lutz know that the business was serious; Wohlgemuth sent him an advance of 280 Marks, and in the letter which accompanied this remittance wrote, Nur lustif drauf los zu wihlen. which may be translated Stir it up lustily. Lutz, who had entered into the correspondence solely for the purpose of entrapping the Commissary, had taken the precaution of acquainting two of his fellow-citizens with what was going on and of submitting to them the whole correspondence. To put the finishing stroke to his work, Lutz, under the pretext of desiring to fix definitely the conditions of his service, asked for an interview with Wohlgemuth at the buffet of the railway station of Rheinfelden. The Commissary, suspecting nothing, turned up at the given moment, and was astonished to find, in place of Luiz, two policemen with a warrant for his arrest. Wohlgemuth, when examined by the authorities, was in a great state of excitoment. He was confronted with letters which he had written to several German refugees exciting them to agitate, and was forced to admit their authenti-The documents were forwarded by the Cantonal Government to the Swiss Federal Council, which at once ordered the expulsion of Wehlgemith from Swiss territory. The arrest of their functionary gave great annoyance in Government circles at Berlin. The North German Gazette (Bismerck's organ) had an abgry leader on the subject, declaring that Wehlgemuth was illegally arrested and that Switzerland must give satisfaction to Germany for her conduct. It threatened that if the Swiss Confederation refused this eatisfaction Garmany would take measures on the frontier to guard against the nefarious action of the socialist agitators who have taken refuge in Switzerland. The Swiss Government, while it recognised, by arresting Lutz, who had accepted the money offered to him, that the conduct of those who laid the trap for Wohlgemuth was not what it ought to be, refused to be intimidated by Germany; and the present rupture in the negotiations is doubtless. due to Switzerland's refusal to allow her territory to become an arena on which the German Government may carry on its war against the socialists.

It is to be hoped that the boys and girls to whom H.E. the Governor presented. Belilies Prizes the other day quite understood the remarks he addressed to them. If they did not, however, we should hardly venture to charge them with dulness of apprehension. The remarks, in fact, were not of a nature to be readily comprehended by the youngand inexperienced mind. In the first place, His Excellency seemed to be taking part in the Dose :- One pill after each liquid Motion proceedings under a kind of protest. He In Bottles, 75 Cents and $1.50 each. objected to such functions, he remarked, because he thought they tended to injure the character of those who receive the rewards, masmuch as it is apt to make them conceited. Now that, so far as it goes, in pretty intelligible, only, if the Governor honestly believed this and thought it his boiling water and apply over the seat of duty to state his belief, one might naturally wouder why he should be there to assist in bringing about so undesirable an effect in the character of the young people who had succeeded in winning those prizes. But His Excellence went on to tone down this rather sweeping dictum, - possibly from a THE HUNGKUNG DISPENSARY. consciousness of the fact that it was an Hongkong, China and Manila. 1195 absurd one to utter in the circumstancesand said he only meant it as a coution, and that such a caution possibly obvisted all harm and even schieved a certain good by creating amplation among other young people. This, no doubt, made the per the publication of this issue commenced prize-winners feel a little less like culprits than they must have felt at first, and possibly saved them from protesting that they didn't mean to win a Belilios prize and that if His Excellency would let them off this time they would never do it again. It may HONGKONG, BATURDAY, JUNE 22, 1889. be that the Gubernatorial mind was not quite made up on the point, as to whether distributing prizes to meritorious scholars telegram had their origin in what is known was a thing to be condemned or to be praised-and that he therefore thought has long been suspected of fomenting a it best to say something on both sides. false agitation in Switzerland, to afford a And His Excellency may also have pretext for more active measures of repres. thought that, after all, it was better to get sion against the socialists in Germany. A 2 prize from his hands, even with a bad little more than a year ago two men, of very grace, than from those of somebody dubious character, named Haupt and of less dazzling eminence, plus a cheery Schröder, were arrested, one at Geneva and word of praise and encouragement. the other at Zurich, and it was pretty It was, however, the subsequent part clearly proved that they were spice and of his address which proved most

them and ponder over. It really seems that in his last sontences His Excellency was giving away what might be called an important Government secret, weether unwittingly or otherwise we do not precend to know. What he called mere shility? was not, in the Governor's opinion, deserving of any credit. He did not go so far as to say that it was positively wicked or dangerous to possess such a thing, but it did not count. Now, that, when one thinks of it, explains a great many things. This must, of course, be strictly an official and Governmental view of mere ability, because the great majority of ordinary. unofficial people think that it counts for a great deal, and would no doubt consider a little of it necessary even to win a Belilios Prize. But if any boy who got one of those trophies on Thursday should ever think of trying to obtain a Government situation let him bear the Governor's words steadfastly in mind. His Excellency does not exclude patience and perseverance from among the things that deserve credit, and the aspiring youth may exercise these qualities; perhaps he may even patiently and perseveringly do thing the wrong way without damaging his prospects, but let him beware of 'mere ability.' If we adopted His Excellency's view, we should probably consider it entirely unnecessary in future to ask why the Government does things which it ought not to do, and particularly why it leaves undone things which it ought to do; and even the promised report on " How the Public Works Department was totally wrecked by the recent rainstorm would be a tiresome superfluity.

THE Sun of San Diego, California, says :--One of the most important discoveries ever known in San Diego's history has been made just below the line at a point about 150 miles a little south of east from San Diego. The discovery consists of a very large voin of Welsh-anthracite coal which crops out for a distance of three miles and shows a surface lifteen feet wide. The coal was discovered by a Mexican who is now in this city and who is making arrangements to develop the mine. He has already sent a man to the City of Mexico in order to get a government title to the land. A few samples of the coal have been brought to the city and were shown to a Sun representative this afternoon. The coal is an excellent quality and as a fuel probably has no superior this side of the famous anthracito fields of Ponnsylvania.

THE Singapore Lat Pau and the Hongkong Shun Wan Yit Pau have fallen out about the coolies on board the s. s. China. Some time ago the Lat Pau said that Deli was a very bad and an unhealthy place, and that no matter whether women or men go there: it is very hard for them to return, and that it would be prudent of the coolies to refuse · to go there. The Shun Wan Yit Pau said that the Lat Pau knew nothing about the piace; and that lately about 15 persons had come back from Deli with plenty of money, therefore it must be a very good place. In its opinion the Lat Part had been listening to grumbling coolie brokers in Singapore. The Lat Pau rejoins by saying that the Shun Wan Yit Pau, though a very good paper, had been misinformed concerning Deli. Hougkong is at a great distance from Deli, while Singapore is close to it, within easy reach, with passengers continually going and coming. Of every event happening in Deli Singapore gets. the news long before Hongkong does. The Lat Pan says that it gets information about affairs in Deli from the best authorities, despite assertions to the contrary. -Straits

Dr Manson, in the course of his inaugural address to the Hongkong Medical Society said :- Passing to general diseases, I would particularly direct your attention to the large field that leprosy offers to vestigators. There is abundant material in this neighbourhood for its study, and is a study of pre-eminent interest from the historical and scientific as well as from the philanthropical point of view, and well worth the devotion of a life time. British India there is computed to be 100,000 lepers; in China I believe there is double or treble that number. Who is there that has moved about a little among the natives that cannot tell of the misery if works? About Amoy, and I suppose it this neighbourhood, every village and hamlet has its little group of leper pariahs wretches condemned for no sin, of their own to a life that is death, unbheered by the remotest hope of cure. All honour to the men who freed the slaves, knucked the fetters of the bleeding limbs of the lunatic, who robbed small pox of its terrors, who showed us how the poison of rabies can be controlled: these have done much for mankind, but their merit is as nothing compared to his who will show us how to rehabilitate the withered limb of the leper and restore this half dead piece of humanity to life and citizenship. None of us need hope to accomplish this much but each of us may add a stepping stone

LABUAN COAL .- The Straits Times says :-The coal resources of Labuan will shortly have a better chance of the development they need in the interest of the island. Undeterred by the failures attending previous enterprise in that direction, the Central Borneo Company Limited has undertaken to give the Laboan coal mines another trial, and has obtained a concession for the purpose from the Crown Agents, on condition that £25,000 of its unallotted capital should be issued and exclusively laid out in opening, developing, and working the coal deposits in question. The Company, which commands capital to the amount of £100,000 to work a concession taking in 15,000 square miles of land in the north central section of Boruso, including the whole Sultanate of Brunel, anticipates profitable returns from working the Labuan coal mines, pending thorough mining exploration in the mainland. Preliminary research in Labuan is. said to have revealed the existence of seams likely to yield three millions of tons month to the members are well worth the of excellent coal, the supply being deemed practically inexhaustible. The prospectus of the Company speaks in glowing terms of the outlook, when the coal raised there will not only outrun local demand, but will also be available for neighbouring ports, especially Singapore. The mineral wealth bridges constructed or repaired, the drains of Laboun likewise is said to include despatched from Hongkong on April laid down or repaired; and all that has been petroleum, which has been found in the ortharn part of the island. The existence of the oil in north central Borneo has also been secertained. We must all wish the Company every success. Cheap and good coal from so near a locality as Labuan will always find ready sale at Singapore, which no information is given to the public of such cannut but be advantaged by the opening up of the sister island, on the lines the Central Borneo Company has marked out. The call for capital has been met, and the deferential manner about such matters, be Company intends to begin operations in Labuan at once, and the manager there has already taken preliminary stops, and is now instructed to go ahead with the knowledge of £25,000 behind him.

IMPORTANT SHARE CASE.

A case, which commenced last week before Mr Justice Goldney in the Singapor Supreme Court, is one of great im, ortance to the entire share-broking community and to any person dealing or speculating shares. The point at issue in the case whether a certified transfer (that is to say, a transfer bearing a memorandum that certificates to the amount set forth have been deposited at the company's office to be transferred) is equivalent to scrip or share certificates, and whether or not the word scrip means share certificate. The result will be awaited with considerable anxiety by those persons who have any business transactions with regard to shares, and particularly shares in Landon companies. The plaintiff, Joseph Heim, claims damages from the defendant, Sim Tiang Hee, for non-performance of an agreement with regard to the purchase of 300 shares in the Bentong Straits Tin Co. PORTUGUESE STRENGTHENING

experience is related by Dr Mauson in his inaugural address to the Hongkong Medical Society:- From, it is true, rather a brief and limited experience of disease in the Portuguese community. I have come to the conclusion that as a class - the well-to-do of them at least-they are very subject disease of the kidneys and associated degenerations. I am convinced that in most cases this is the result of faulty conceptions as to what is a proper dietary in the conditions under which they live. As a race they are smaller, weaker and less vigorous physically than the English and Germans they come in contact with. The physical superiority of these they erroneously attribute to a beef and beer diet; accordingly, they cram themselves with what they consider strengthening things; beef times a day, beef tea between meals, port wine and so forth. Obesity is often, result of this; often gout, choked kidneys and Bright's disease. The feeling of illness and languar that satisty gives rise to. attributed to weakness, and accordingly fresh fuel is thrown on the fire; and so on until the chimneys are choked altogether. and fatal degenerations induced. What do you think of this for a dietary of a young man aged 22 years? He came to me as patient. He was married, had a baby, and was clerk in an office the hours of which were ten to four with a long interval for lunch. My patient went to bed at eight o'clock in the evening. He rose at eight the morning, when he find a cup of tea and dressed for breakfast. This meal always included one pound of beef-steak, besides eggs, fish, milk and bread. From ten to one he was at his office. At one he had plate of beef ten, another pound of beef steak, bread and cheese and some odds and ends. At four he returned from his office and, feeling exhausted, had a glass of milk cup of tea and bread and butter. seven he had a full dinner, including the inevitable pound of beef-steak, and at eight he retired to rest. He took no exercise whatever. Beer and porter he occasionally indulged in, but his favourite refreshment was Portuguese wine- The pu e juice of the grape, you know, that could do nobudy any harm; not your English doctored wines.' Tobacco, of course, was freely consumed. What wonder my young friend's slumbers were a little disturbed ? He complained very much of his unsound sleeping. He always awoke in the middle of the night, he said; but he was prepared That nevertheless there is no reason why for this; he had a pot of tea at his bedside and he whiled away the tedium of the hours of wakefulness by drinking this and playing with the baby. Gentlemen, this is a true picture. Can we wonder that in this case month. Evensons at 5. the head was full and aching, that there was pain in the stomach and pyrosis, that he never felt well but always languid and tired? He applied to me for something to improve his appetite! He wanted strongthening, he said, very badly, but could not sat enough. It took me half-an-hour convince him he was eating too much; he acted on my advice, cut his eating, his drinking, his sleep and his cigars; and when I saw him some weeks later he was a wiser and a better man. It is ignorance and misconception, not vice, that give rise these dieletic errors. Because wine is call ed strong drink there is a popular whim that it is strengthening; because the ox powerful there is an idea his flesh will giv power too. This is just the same principle that guides the Chinese to cat the flesh the tiger to give him courage, the horns of the deer to give him sexual power, liga ments and stuews to give him strength The one is as rational and true physiological rically as the other. IRISH AND OTHER BULLS: The Sectator has been going in for bulls." Here are a few sent to it by some orrespondenta:-

F.P.O. writes :- The first example which occurs to me, and which will serve as a sample of the whole cellus. is the reply which an Irish lady once made to me when I asked. Whother she had onjoyed her morning dip? the first of the season. Not much she answered; the sea was damp from not having been bathed in all the winter. Who that loves his swim in the bring does not recognise the mensation of a

Nobody seems to have recalled for your readers' benefit the supreme practical 'hull' of Irish story. When the rebels in 1798 wished to testify their abhorrence of the Hon. John Bereaford, they diligently collected a vast number of the notes issued by his bank, and, with much shouting and glorification, burnt them publicly in a bonfire. I forget how many thousands of pounds these true sons of the Green lale thus presented to their enemy, -as a token

G. F. S. writes - I have not ob served among your collection of Irish bulls one I heard of some time ago Don't interrupt me till I'm done. D. Walkinshaw writes :- The following fine specimens may be entered in compettition for a prize, English persus Irigh Bulls. The first is from the Morning Chronicle (June 19th, 1884 :) To investigate the question, however, would lead us too deeply into the dry and troubled waters of moral philosophy. I do not remember in what paper the following appeared, but the date was January 7th, 1839, when there had been a fremendous hurricane Several chimneys fell, burying the mingles in the ruins. 'A row of cottages fell, but unfortunately the immates were all out." These two came out in one of the Shefseld papers :- 'At first sight the electionsering addresses a und thoroughly Protectionist. The house [i.e. the attendance at the theatro] was not so good as we had hoped to have seen it, but there were more persons present than we expected to have seen,'-(which is rather like Joe Miller's pig-jobber, who, being asked what nort of market he had made, roplied, - Not so good as I expected, and I thought I

A third is from a leading article in the same paper on the Czar of Russia :- At any rate, if the Czar did show any heat, it is probable that he would go to sleep upon

I once heard an American revivalist, in is loudest tones, rave and roar about the icebergs of damnation. Whether it was a lapsus lingua or not, it had a good resonant sound, and produced the sensation aimed at in revival services.

PLEASANT STORIES ABOUT THE

Stories of the German Emperor are always abundant, often uncomplimentary and not infrequently apocryphal. Here is one which seems to have rather better credentials than usual. One day, it runs, he invited a young Lieutenant, who is an excellent zither player, to dinner. The imperial family dines at 2 o'clock, and after dinner the officer gave a little concert on the zither to their Majesties. Toward 4 o'clock he asked permission to retire. Why so soon ? graciously saked the Emperor. 'Sire,' replied the Lieutenant, return to my garrison to-morrow, and I have promised my sister to come and say good-by this afternoon at her pensionat."
